Internal Revenue regulations require that your scholarship grant be used for qualified tuition and related expenses in order for it not to be taxable income to you. Qualified tuition and related expenses consist of tuition, fees, books, supplies, and equipment required for the courses of instruction at an educational organization. Examples of expenses that are not qualified tuition expenses are room and board and other general expenses. It is suggested that you consult with a tax specialist to determine the tax consequences of your grant.

I have read and understand the above statement and attest that these funds will be used accordingly. Failure to do so will result in forfeiture of any additional funds.
